

John Scott is Organist and Director of Music at Saint Thomas Church, Fifth Avenue, in New York City. After his initial musical training as a Cathedral chorister in Wakefield, Yorkshire, Dr. Scott became Organ Scholar of St. John's College, Cambridge. While still a student, he made his Royal Albert Hall debut as the youngest organ soloist to appear in the Proms. Upon leaving Cambridge, Dr. Scott was jointly appointed Assistant Organist at London's two Anglican Cathedrals, St. Paul's and Southwark. He subsequently became Sub-Organist of St. Paul's, and served as Director of Music there for fourteen years before joining Saint Thomas Church as Director of Music. In 1998, he was nominated International Performer of the Year by the New York Chapter of the American Guild of Organists, and is a frequent jury member of the world's most prestigious organ competitions. Before embarking for his new post in New York, he was awarded the title Lieutenant of the Royal Victorian Order (LVO), a personal honor from Queen Elizabeth II. He was awarded an Honorary Doctorate from Nashotah House Seminary in 2008.
